ABOUT VRINDAVAN

Etymologically, the ancient name of the city, Brindavana, comes from its groves of 'Brinda' Ocimum tenuiflorum (Holy Basil or tulasi) with vana (Sanskrit: वन) meaning a grove or a forest. Two small groves still exist at Nidhivan and Seva Kunj. Vrindavan has an ancient past, associated with Hindu history, and is an important Hindu pilgrimage site. One of its oldest surviving temples is the Govinda Dev temple, built in 1590, with the town founded earlier in the same century.

It is believed that the essence of Vrindavan was lost over time until the 16th century, when it was rediscovered by Chaitanya Mahaprabhu. In the year 1515, Chaitanya Mahaprabhu visited Vrindavan, with purpose of locating the lost holy places associated with Lord Sri Krishna's transcendent pastimes. Chaitanya wandered through the different sacred forests of Vrindavan in a spiritual trance of divine love. It was believed that by His divine spiritual power, he was able to locate all the important places of Krishna's pastimes in and around Vrindavan.

We, now 400 years later, are willing/planning to do the same with our latest offering. We visualize providing a peaceful abode to people, quenching their spiritual & philosophical needs.

Vrindavan is considered to be a holy place by all traditions of Hinduism. The major tradition followed in the area is Vaisnavism, and it is a center of learning with many Vrindavan Ashrams operating. It's a center of Krishna worship and the area includes places like Govardhana and Gokul that are associated with Krishna. Many millions of devotees of Radha-Krishna visit these places of pilgrimage every year and participate in a number of festivals that relate to the scenes from Krishna's life on Earth.

A DESIRABLE REALITY...

I woke this day in a valley of dream; a sight like this had never been seen; in the distance I saw a glimmer of hope; and the grove gave way to a gentle slope. As I reached the clearing. Oh! What a sight to see; my eyes opened wide, what could this place be? In cascading greens, laden trees drooped, in every corner, nature bloomed; and towering mammoths rose from the ground, casting shadows of luxury all around.

GOWLOK DHAM is a place where nature connects to a recreation destination, social activities and gracious living.
